Gynburra "Big Butterfish"

The Gynburra (or Butterfish) is significant to the Narungga people, it is a generous and plentiful source of food and also a term of acknowledgement and identity to the Narungga people as the 'Butterfish Mob'.

The Gynburra is the traditional Narungga name for the butterfish and has been acknowledged through the naming of this festival.

The fish provides a flesh that would be enjoyed by all. Today, we have evolved the spearing of the Gynburra by way of boats, snorkelling gear, and spear-guns to seek out the Gynburra for not only the feast, but for the title of 'Butterfish King'.

Narungga

Narungga people have always lived on Yorke Peninsula. Our country extends as far north as Port Broughton and east to the Hummock Ranges. Our neighbours were the Kurna of the Adelaide Plains and the Nukunu to the north, with whom the Narungga would meet for trade and ceremony. The Narungga nation was made up of four clans, the Kurnara in the north of the peninsula, Windera in the east, Wari in the west and Dilpa in the south.
